

8th Symposium of the International Society for the History of Radiology

Brussels 28 Sept 2019

Colonel (GS), MD Wouter Weuts

Med Col (GS) Wouter WEUTS was trained as a family physician with additional qualifications in emergency medicine and tropical medicine. He served for almost ten years as a physician within the Belgian paracommando brigade at battalion and brigade level. He subsequently served as Staff Officer in the Eurocorps Headquarters in Strasbourg, as Medical Operations Officer in the ISAF Joint Command and as Chief Operations in the Staff of the Belgian Medical Component. Between 2014 and 2017 he commanded a medical Unit in Leopoldsburg. Currently, he is the Director of the Military Hospital Queen Astrid in Brussels.

During his career, he was deployed in military operations in Albania, Benin, Kosovo, DR Congo, Bosnia, Lebanon and Afghanistan.

Presents:

Welcome at the AGM

Since 1980, the Military Hospital Queen Astrid evolved from a cold war-area military hospital to a specialised military medical facility. The main purpose of the hospital is to ensure the medical readiness of the Force and to ensure the readiness of the medical Force. The burn center of the hospital is internationally renowned for its standard of care.